January 2020

Focus of the Month-

Call No.: 370.154 F47 2015

One of the struggles for modern day teachers is how to motivate their students. Even the best lessons and books don't seem to get some students excited about learning. These students won't participate in class and some of them may even become disruptive. In some cases, a student who appeared unmotivated actually has difficulty learning and is in need of special attention.

In Building a Community of Self-Motivated Learners: Strategies to Help Students Thrive in School and Beyond, there are some strategies that can be used in the classroom to help motivate students. These include establishing and maintaining positive relationships with students, promoting learner autonomy, providing quality and timely feedback, encouraging peer learning and collaborative work, and promoting assessment as learning.

What a joy if you can get a classroom full of students enthusiastic about learning and pushing themselves to excel! So, don't hesitate to come to the Central Resources Centre and take the book home.
